ALERT!

An 11-year-old Strongsville girl was approached by two men as she waited for her school bus one recent morning. The men, claiming to be police officers, offered the girl a ride. Fortunately, she declined the ride and the men drove away.

As a parent, this is a frightening scenario. Most parents teach their children to trust police officers. However, some criminals pose as police officers in order to lure away kids.

Please tell your children to never get in a car with strangers – even if the strangers claim to be police officers. The police will never try to take a child anywhere in their car.

Stay Safe,
