Summit County Executive Ilene Shapiro Recognizes the Month of August as Summit Kids Month in Summit County

Summit for Kids Expo to Take Place August 19th

Summit County Executive Ilene Shapiro has recognized the month of August 2017 as Summit Kids Month, featuring a month-long focus on child health and wellness, as well as safety and early childhood education. Each week in August will focus on a new theme critical to the welfare and upbringing of the children of Summit County. And, for the 8th year in a row, the banner event of Summit Kids Month, the “Summit for Kids Expo,” will take place at the John S. Knight Center on August 19th.

“Focusing on early childhood initiatives such as education, health and wellness is an imperative part of a larger strategy focusing on our children in Summit County,” said Executive Shapiro. “Summit Kids Month provides numerous opportunities for families to engage in activities focusing on the well-being of their children and family, which in turn helps to build a stronger foundation for our community.”

Week one of August is “New Beginnings Week”; week two is “Health and Wellness Week”, followed by the third week, “Family Week” and ending the month with “Child Safety Week”. The
