Summit County Executive Shapiro Holds Fundraiser for Susan G. Komen Race for the Cure

Summit County employees raised $800.00 for Susan G. Komen Race for the Cure, which will support the foundation's upcoming Akron race on October 22nd. County Executive Shapiro held a bake sale at the end of September, which featured pink baked goods in honor of breast cancer awareness, donated by County employees.

Susan G. Komen Race for the Cure foundation raises funds for breast cancer education and awareness, while honoring breast cancer survivors. The foundation has created a series of 5k runs and walks to support its cause. Susan G. Komen foundation also works with affiliates all over the world in an extensive global effort to end breast cancer. 75 percent of the proceeds collected from the races goes towards local breast cancer services and initiatives and the remaining portion is dedicated to research.

“The Susan G. Komen Race for the Cure is such a fantastic organization that is so dedicated to raising awareness and education about breast cancer- a disease that has touched the lives of so many loved ones, family, and friends,” said County Executive Ilene Shapiro. “I am very proud of the participation and support we had for this amazing foundation.”
